Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Gran Canaria's more than the sum of its famous beaches, where holidaymakers assume the horizontal position to lap up one of the world's most-celebrated climates. It's not hard to see why capital Las Palmas de Gran Canaria was named after the island's palms. They are here, there, and everywhere. If you think of active sports in GC, you'll probably think of diving and surfing. But head to the island's interior to climb. It's even possible to ascend Roque Nublo, Gran Canaria's iconic Cloud Rock. Little wonder GC's dubbed the miniature continent.

THE ISLAND

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

There's an island in the Mid-Atlantic offering a gateway to the Americas. An island very much part of Spain but one far more African than Iberian in its make-up. That island's Gran Canaria.

Marvel at the Maspalomas dunes featuring grains blown over from the Sahara, making the area resemble a mini-desert. Explore capital Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, colourful and vibrant, earning it the nickname of Little Havana. Escape to the country by enjoying mountains which wouldn't look out of place in the Alps and valleys as green as their Welsh counterparts, under a trademark Gran Canaria azure sky.

The east of the island's often overlooked, but it has some great sports beaches for windsurfers like Pozo Izquierdo, plus pretty towns like Agüimes. The west of the island, meanwhile, boasts the great lost beach of Güigüi, ideally reached by foot. Nearly as unspoilt is the rugged north coast.

There's the deep south of the resorts. The likes of the aforementioned Maspalomas and the just-as-famous Playa del Inglés. Where the weather's even more ideal for sunseekers than Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, recognized by US academics as the metropolis with a climate more favourable than any other city worldwide.

EVENTS

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Gran Canaria's calendar's packed full of both religious and secular cultural events, as well as sporting ones. Municipalities hold regular local fiestas which pay tribute to their native saint. There are also those which pre-date the Spanish invasion. We'll share the major dates for your diary from January through to December.

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Introducing Gran Canaria's famous five. These five destinations on the island you simply must see. 1, 2, 3, here goes:

- Vegueta
- Mógan
- Roque Nublo
- Maspalomas
- Museums

Vegueta

Strolling around the cobbled streets of Vegueta, where the twin towers of Catedral de Santa Ana dominate the skyline, feels like stepping back in time. For you're walking in the footsteps of Christopher Columbus. Visit the Ermita de San Antonio hermitage, where a kneeling Columbus prayed prior to setting sail.

Address: Vegueta, 35001, Las Palmas de Gran Canaria

Mógan

Three, it's the magic number. For there's Mógan, the south-west municipality which enjoys the best weather on GC as the south is sunniest and the west clearest. Then there's Puerto de Mógan, a stylish resort dubbed Little Venice for its intricate canals and Mógan, a picture-postcard whitewashed village.

Address: Mógan

Roque Nublo

Australia's got Ayer's Rock, Ireland, the Blarney Stone, and Gran Canaria, Roque Nublo. Cloud Rock seems a little bit of an odd name. Usually, because you can see for miles and miles from this famous vantage point. Walk there from La Goleta car park, located on the Ayacata-Pozo de las Nieves road.

Address: Roque Nublo

Maspalomas

The famous dunes have been a nature reserve since 1897, although scientists theorise they only date back to 1755 when a Lisbon-born tsunami hit GC. The Faro de Maspalomas, however, is a 68-metre tall man-made landmark. Although visitors are more attracted by the 2,710-metre-long beach.

Address: Maspalomas, 35100, San Bartolomé de Tirajana

Museums

For a gateway into Gran Canaria's past, why not visit one of GC's museums? Las Palmas de Gran Canaria's Casa de Colón (Columbus House) museum chronicles the adventures of Christopher Columbus whilst Gáldar's Cueva Pintada (Painted Cave) museum reveals the island's pre-Spanish history.

Protected natural spaces

Get back to nature in the island's centre, Parque Rural del Nublo, where you'll be able to trek to the island's great natural moment, Roque Nublo.

Further north, Los Tilos de Moya's the last remaining section of woodland which stretched across this part of GC, where great canarii warriors like Doramas used to roam.

Taste Gran Canaria

If it's international cuisine you're looking for, you're well-catered for by cosmopolitan Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. Visit Teror's market to pick up the municipality's traditional chorizo, a sausage that's as sweet as it is savoury. Further inland, Tejeda makes good use of its almond trees in desserts. Traditional gastronomy is all around.

Address: Gran Canaria

Archaeological heritage

Gran Canaria's fertile earth is rich in remains from the canarii, the North African race which occupied the island before the 15th-Century arrival of the Spanish. Learn more about them in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria's Museo Canario. Another related museum well worth visiting is Gáldar's Cueva Pintada.

Address: Gran Canaria

Las Palmas de Gran Canaria museums

The bulk of the capital's museums are located in the oldest part of town. Vegueta's home to the Casa de Colón (Columbus House), the Museo Diocesano de Arte Sacro (a sacred-art museum within the cathedral), and the Museo Canario with its grisly but fascinating collection of canarii skulls.

Address: Las Palmas de Gran Canaria

Carnivals

The major fiesta's Carnaval. And the main Carnival is the Carnaval de Las Palmas, three colourful weeks of circus-meets-pantomime fun. Similarly flamboyant is Maspalomas' carnival. Where extravagant costumes make it a hit with the gay community.

Address: Gran Canaria

Theme Parks

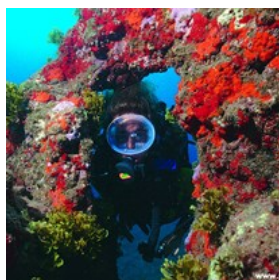

Scream if you want to go faster on the slides at Agualand's water park or check out all the pretty birds, of the feathered variety, at Palmitos Park. Visit Sioux City if you're a fan of cowboys and Native Americans. Or head to Puerto Rico for the new kid on the block, the Angry Birds Activity Park, which opened in 2013.

Address: Gran Canaria

Nautical activities

236km of Atlantic coastline makes GC a fantastic water-sports venue. Learn how to SUP on Canteras beach in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria or kayak on Playa de Alcaravaneras nearby. There are surf schools in the north and south of the island, as well as dive academies if you want to go deep, deep down.

Address: Gran Canaria

Land activities

Gran Canaria offers things to do on its turf as well as its surf. There are a number of caminos reales, royal pathways, which you can hike along. These include a three-day version of the famous Camino de Santiago. GC's a great cycling destination too, with professional teams using it as a training base.

Address: Gran Canaria

Golf

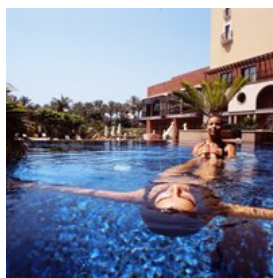

Fore, Gran Canaria offers some testing courses to challenge even the most experienced golfer. These include the oldest course in the whole of Spain, Bandama's

Real Club de Golf de Las Palmas. And one of the newest, the Salobre Norte, at the Sheraton Salobre in the south of the island.

Address: Gran Canaria

Spas

Gran Canaria's a well-established wellness destination. Many tourists visit the island as the climate's been recommended them by their doctor. Gran Canaria

Wellness helps you find the best spa and thalassotherapy hotels on the island. As well as the finest medical centres.

Traditional sports

Gran Canaria locals love their basketball and football. But they're also keen on some sports which probably predate the arrival of the Spanish. The likes of lucha canaria, Canarian wrestling, whose bouts draw a loyal following to the rings in municipalities up and down the island.

Address: Gran Canaria

Party like a Canarian

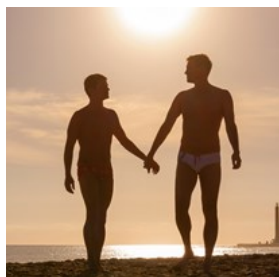

Fiesta fiesta, no time for siesta. Teror's Fiesta de Nuestra Señora del Pino (Our Lady of the Pine), dates back to the 17th century when the statue of Gran Canaria's patron saint was taken to the capital to pray for rain. Even older is Agaete's Fiesta de la Rama in August which sees partygoers thrashing the Atlantic with palm branches, just like the canarii before them did, again for rain.

Address: Gran Canaria

Gran Canaria, the Rainbow Isle

Gran Canaria's a very tolerant island. For many gay people, the island's their holiday destination of choice. Quite a few have settled here too.

You'll see the Gay Pride flag waved with, yes, pride at festivals including the Carnaval Internacional de Maspalomas in the south of the island.

Address: Gran Canaria

ARC

Las Palmas de Gran Canaria's Muelle Deportivo (Sports Harbour) is the starting point for the Atlantic Rally for Cruisers. The World Cruising Club event features 200+ boats and more than 1,200 sailors cruising 2,700 nautical miles across the Atlantic to Saint Lucia each November.

Address: Muelle Deportivo de Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, 35008, Las Palmas de Gran Canaria

Internet: www.worldcruising.com/arc/

Coffee

Anything seems to go on Gran Canaria and everything seems to grow. The Valle de Agaete's home to tropical fruit farms and vineyards. It also houses the world's most northerly coffee plantations. These are the only plantations in the whole of Europe, which makes Gran Canaria seem even more exotic.

Address: Valle de Agaete, 35489, Gran Canaria

Cave communities

The canarii who occupied the island before the Spanish conquest of the 15th century used to live in caves. It's a tradition that's continued in the likes of the south-east's Barranco de Guayadeque and west central's Artenara. Get to know the real-life Bedrocks with a visit or stay.

Address: Gran Canaria

Rural accommodation

As well as cave houses, there's a wide range of countryside properties. Proving that Gran Canaria offers accommodation more varied than the all-inclusive resort hotel. As well as rural hotels, you'll find holiday cottages and fincas if you're more interested in a self-catering holiday.

BEACH LIFE

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

The golden brown of Gran Canaria's beaches has made it with a hit with the bucket-and-spade brigade. But there are rocky coves and natural swimming pools to explore to. Visit the wild north coast if you want a change from the tamer south coast.

Playa del Inglés

Playa del Inglés is one of the longest beaches on Gran Canaria. Its sand is the colour of vanilla ice cream. No matter how busy it is, there's always room for another towel.

Address: Playa del Inglés, 35100, San Bartolomé de Tirajana

Puerto Rico

Lying between two harbours is where you'll find Puerto Rico beach. The local restaurants offer familiar cuisine plus the freshest fish. Look out for trips to see dolphins and other boat excursions.

Address: Playa de Puerto Rico, 35130, Mogán

Sardina del Norte

This treasure is a favourite with locals from nearby Gáldar and beyond. One of the best places to dive on the island, its restaurants also specialize in recently-caught sardines, served with a wedge of lemon. This beach can get windy in summer, but it's also one of the sunniest spots in the north of the island.

Address: Playa de Sardina del Norte, 35469, Gáldar

San Agustín

San Agustín's quieter than Playa del Inglés and Maspalomas. It's more of a hit with Gran Canaria natives than tourists. Although there is a good selection of international restaurants along its promenade.

Address: Playa de San Agustín, 35100, San Bartolomé de Tirajana
Public Transport: www.globalsu.net

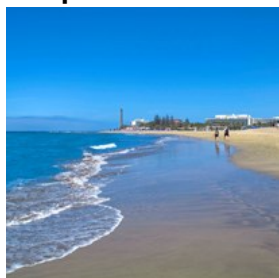

Amadores

On the south-west coast of Gran Canaria lies this 800-metre stretch of golden sand and crystal-clear waters. Playa de Amadores means "Beach of Lovers", and the site is indeed perfect for loving couples. Ball games and loud music are prohibited, which helps to create a peaceful and serene setting.

DINING

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

The Atlantic Ocean provides local restaurants with plenty of natural ingredients, with fish and seafood prominent on many menus. Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, the most cosmopolitan Canarian city, houses restaurants from across the globe. Whilst it's easier to eat well on Gran Canaria than badly, here are some restaurants we particularly recommend. And for a bite-sized introduction to Canarian cuisine, check out La Ruta de Enyesque (GC tapas).

La Ruta de Enyesque

You can follow La Ruta de Enyesque for a bite-sized introduction to the world of Canarian gastronomy. An enyesque's Gran Canaria's version of the tapas, it's an appetizer; titbit. Find restaurants to crawl in the north, centre, and south of the island.

CAFES

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Locals start, and indeed end, their day with a coffee. Forget your lattes, GC natives keep things short with a cortado. For a more milky version, ask for a cortado largo. Or even a relaxing café con leche. Parque Santa Catalina, Triana's Plaza Cairasco, and Vegueta's Plaza Santa Ana are popular coffee-break destinations.

Parque Santa Catalina

Less park and more square, for those travelling on cruise ships, Parque Santa Catalina is the first place they'll see after arriving to Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. Take your pick from the cafés which offer more outdoor seating than indoor.

Address: Parque Santa Catalina, Las Palmas de Gran Canaria
Public Transport: www.guaguas.com

Plaza Cairasco

Located in upper Triana, this perfect square's a hop, skip, and a jump away from Vegueta. Take pleasure in leisure by whiling away some time in one of Cairasco's cafés. Where, with the average temperature being 22°, you'll appreciate the al fresco experience.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Nightlife in Gran Canaria is late and loud. Maspalomas and Playa del Inglés are the party hotspots. It starts late and goes on all night with most bars opening until 2 am and discos and clubs usually until 6 am. The Yumbo commercial centre's where most of the action takes place, catering for a mixed bag of revellers from sundown to sunrise! Head to capital Las Palmas de Gran Canaria for some cracking nightlife too.

Yumbo Centrum

SHOPPING

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Gran Canaria's a great place to shop. From the charms of the capital's Calle Mayor de Triana, the main shopping street in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, to bright, shiny, and new shopping centres such as El Tablero in the south, there's plenty of choice. And at a low price too, what with the island's reduced VAT.

Calle Mayor de Triana

Las Palmas de Gran Canaria's main high street is where the locals like to do their shopping. It's also where they like to have a coffee, grab a bite to eat, and enjoy a drink.

So expect to find lots of bars, cafés, and restaurants, along with shops.

ESSENTIAL INFORMATION

Gran Canaria Tourist Board

Around the size of Greater London, Gran Canaria's an easy enough island to navigate. Having said that, it's rather more mountainous than the likes of NW1. There are two bus services on the island, one serving the capital Las Palmas de Gran Canaria and the other, the rest of the island.

Airport

You'll find the Aeropuerto de Gran Canaria (LPA) roughly halfway between capital Las Palmas de Gran Canaria and the island's southern resorts. It's 24km south of the capital city and 30km north of Playa del Inglés. There's a taxi rank at the airport plus Global bus stops.

Address: Aeropuerto de Gran Canaria, Carretera General del Sur s/n
Phone: +34 928 579 130
Internet: www.aena.es

Public Transport

You can get to more or less anywhere on the island by Global bus. The capital has two bus stations, in Parque San Telmo and Parque Santa Catalina. If you're travelling around Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, look out for Guaguas Municipales' yellow buses to cut journey times.

Address: Gran Canaria
Internet: www.guaguas.com www.globalsu.net

Taxi

Taxis are generally inexpensive with fixed rates for longer distances. There's a rank at the airport, as well as outside

Las Palmas de Gran Canaria's two bus stations. Although you never have to wait long to see one on the capital's streets.

Address: Gran Canaria

Post

The main post office is in Avenida Primero de Mayo 62, Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. The post office is the place to buy stamps for the postcards you buy at souvenir shops. As well as to send larger packages home.

Address: Gran Canaria

Pharmacy

From the largest city to the smallest village, it's generally not a problem to find a chemists. However, it can be a trickier to locate one open out of hours. Nevertheless, each pharmacy displays the information on which particular chemist is open 24 hours on that particular date.

Address: Gran Canaria

Population

838,397

Currency

1 Euro = 100 cents

Opening hours

On weekdays, shops generally open from 9.00 am until 1.00 pm and then again from 4.30 pm until 8.30 pm. At weekends, most only open in the morning on Saturday. Those in the resort areas generally open seven days a week. Over the Christmas and New Year period, shopping centres extend their opening hours to accommodate the extra trade with some staying open until as late as midnight.
