THE ISLAND

Ibiza is one of the most beautiful islands in Europe and it certainly is the liveliest one. Every year more than 4 million visitors come to the island, which has just over 100,000 permanent residents. 'Eivissa' is the formal Catalan name and the name used by its inhabitants. The Balearic island has had many occupants over the last thousand years - from the ancient Phoenician and Carthagian peoples to the Greeks, Moors, Turks and Catalans.

By the 60's, though, the main invaders were hippies and they established Ibiza as a place for counterculture. All left their cultural fingerprints on Ibiza with a 2,000-year-old salt industry, an old smugglers route, a hippie market and a charming old town. Now, Ibiza is more international than ever.

This is evident in the many restaurants with very different culinary experiences and in the bars and clubs with chic designs and absolutely breathtaking scenery. Ibiza has everything to offer from an extreme party vacation to a tranquil island holiday for the family, from funky drinks to ancient traditional meals. It's a place that gives you a taste for more.

BEACH LIFE

The reasons for travelling to Ibiza are the lovely beaches, great water and happy people. Whether you are here for the water sports or to get a nice tan, Ibiza has the beach for you!

Cala Conta

There's a little bit of everything here: the beaches are beautiful, the water is popular with snorkelling fans, water sports are on offer and some decent bars can be found as well. Cala Conta is situated on the west coast of the island.

Address: Cala Conta

DO & SEE

Ibiza is more than just bars and beach life. Take a day to explore the island by bike or car, stroll among the narrow streets of Dalt Vila and pick up a real bargain at the Hippie market. This is a lovely holiday destination!

Cova de Can Marça

Enjoy the breathtaking views of the sea as you descend into the prehistoric and concealed cave system once used by tobacco and liquor smugglers. Stalagmites and stalactites decorate the cave and at the centre there's a 9 meter high water cascade. Tours take place every hour from 10.30 until sunset every day all year.

The caves are just to the right of the Port de Sant Miquel beach, Sant Miquel.

Address: Port de Sant Miquel beach, Sant Miquel

Internet: www.covadecanmarsa.com

Dalt Vila

The Dalt Vila (old town) walls have been declared a World Heritage site by UNESCO and was built in the 16th century as a defense against attackers. The narrow and cobbled streets are well-preserved and magnificent views await on the top of the castle complex as well as by the Santa María Cathedral - the crown of the Dalt Vila. The outstanding gateway Portal de ses Taules can be found in the north wall. It is definitely worth a visit as it is a small town in itself.

Address: Carrer des Pla de Vila, 07800 Eivissa

Es Canar Hippy Market

This enormous market offers a great choice of clothing and jewelry at low prices. If you look closely, you can still spot some of the original hippies who started the market in the 1960's.

Public Transport: Bus 13 to Santa Eularia, then change to bus 18 for Es Canar

Opening hours: Open every Wednesday 10 am-7 pm from May until October

Exploring the Island

If you feel like exploring the island through the pine-wooded hills to distant and secluded coves, you can rent cars, mopeds and bicycles at reasonable prices almost everywhere on the island.

Tip: don't rent them from the hotel as they tend to charge extra.

Formentera Island

This amazing island neighbouring Ibiza, has unspoiled beaches with crystal clear blue water. From the small port of La Savina, there are buses to other parts of the island, or you can hire a car, moped or bicycle from one of the nearby shops.

You can grab a map from the port's tourist office. Sights of interest include a 4 000-year-old Ca Na Costa sepulture - the island's natural beauty, the Es Mirador restaurant and the beaches of Cala Saona, Illetes and Llevant.

Address: La Savina

Public Transport: Take the 30 min ferry crossing from the port of Ibiza Town to port La Savina

Address: Via Romana, 31, 07800 Ibiza

Phone: +34 971 301 771

Sa Penya

Between the Dalt Vila and the Port of Ibiza lies the area of Sa Penya. A former fishermen's quarter, the small cozy streets now sizzle with life in the summer as the busiest bars, restaurants and shops are here. Don't miss the nightly club parades when drag queens and musicians hand out fliers for the evening's parties.

Address: Sa Penya

Ses Salines

The salt fields have been in use for over 2,000 years and created the 'white gold' of Ibiza. It was the island's main industry until tourism came to Ibiza. As the water evaporates over the hot summer, salt crust is left on the bottom of the lakes making a spectacular sight every night as it glistens when the sun sets. Bring your camera!

Diving

Warm, clear waters and lots of coastline with rich marine life makes Ibiza an amazing place for divers and snorkelling. Dive sites include cave diving and ship wreck diving.

There are many professional diving schools scattered around on Ibiza's beaches, but they can be quite pricey though.

Almudaina / Castillo de Eivissa / Ibiza Castle

This fortress used to be a military and administrative headquarter of the Moslem 'Wali'. Ruins from the 12th and 13th centuries have been uncovered here although most buildings are from the 16th century. The Almudaina has been declared a World Heritage site.

Address: Zona Castillo 07800 Ibiza, Eivissa

Cala d'en Serra

Ibiza's culture and history is reflected in the island's culinary heritage. The cuisine is strongly influenced by different Mediterranean cultures and in particular by the cuisine of Catalonia. Fresh fish and seafood dominate the island's culinary culture of course. However, as a big tourist destination, Ibiza's restaurants cater for all kinds of gastronomic desires.

Can Bigotis

This is a secluded restaurant near the Cala Mastella beach. The owner goes fishing in the morning and serves his catch as "Arroz Marineras" in the afternoon and evening. To make a reservation - which is a must - you have to go in person a few days before as the restaurant doesn't have a phone. It is said that even the Spanish king was refused because he didn't have a reservation.

SHOPPING

Ibiza brags of having the largest numbers of stores on the smallest area in the world and it really looks the part. On Ibiza, you can find a selection of the latest and craziest in fashion for your night out - or cool accessories for your day at the beach. Just south of Ibiza Town is the resort Figueretas. You will find plenty of shops selling the usual brands, sportswear, souvenirs and handicrafts from Ibiza. Here is also the big market Malacoste.

In Ibiza's port is also great shopping in trendy boutiques. At night, the streets turn into a market with street vendors and stalls where you can buy clothes, jewelry, music and more. The shops in the harbor are open late during the summer months and if you walk around Ibiza town you will also find many shops. In particular, along Passeig Rey and Avgda d'Isidor Macabich which also has a small bazaar.

In Sant Antoni and Sant Antoni Bay you can shop at large department stores and shops along the coast. You'll find everything from fashion and beach wear to music and souvenirs.

Public Transport

Ibiza has a decent bus service that will take you around the island. Regular bus services are working all year, while night busses and the Discobus between Ibiza Town and Sant Antoni are in service from May until September.

All buses run from/to Avgda d'Isidor Macabich in Ibiza Town and bus stops are signed with a blue "P" on a white background.

There's a waterbus service from Ibiza harbour to other beaches on the island. You can also take it to go across the harbour (to the El Divino club and Marina Botafoch).
